

INVITATION VIRTUAL SYMPOSIUM

Privacy and Data Protection in Africa

22 -23 October 2025
09:00 - 16:00 (SAST)

The Centre for Human Rights, Faculty of Law, University of Pretoria, invites you to participate in a Symposium on Privacy and Data Protection in Africa, taking place virtually from 22 to 23 October 2025.

As Africa embraces digital transformation, questions of privacy, data protection, and digital rights have become more urgent than ever. While many African states have enacted data protection laws, significant gaps remain in aligning national frameworks with international human rights standards and ensuring effective enforcement.

This two-day symposium will convene leading and emerging African scholars, practitioners, and policymakers to examine the state of privacy and data protection across the continent. Participants will reflect on key trends, legal developments, and policy challenges; share best practices; and propose strategies for building a cohesive, rights-based data governance ecosystem in Africa.
